

CHARGES COMMUNISTS DIRECT STRIKES OF CIO

CRAZY NEW YORK COP-HATER SHOT BY THEM SUNDAY

Killed as He Fired Promiscuously Into Meeting of Officers

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Police delved into obscure phases of simple psychiatry today attempting to determine what started Charles San Filippo on the "cop hating" career that ended in his death as the climax of a two-gun attack on 250 policemen at a Central park memorial service.

Thousands of horrified Sabbath strollers saw the madman, about 40, precipitate a brief pitched battle in which five persons—two of them policemen—were wounded.

"I was going to try to kill as many cops as I could," he muttered as he lay dying with at least 20 police bullet wounds in his head.

He came upon the outdoor memorial almost unnoticed yesterday afternoon, packing a rifle and a shotgun, and wearing crude, bullet-proof breast plates. A speaker had finished his eulogy after a reading of the roll of the dead, answered by "absent" as each name was called; a light flickered out, too, at the name of each dead policeman. Then—shots from a double-barrel shotgun shattered the solemnity and in a wink most of the 250 policemen drew service revolvers and poured volleys at the retreating figure, who fired the rifle as he ran.

Gasped Dying Hatred
San Filippo slumped to the ground and gasped his dying hatred of cops, a hatred evidenced in two traffic summonses found in his possession, and in clippings at the family apartment in the Bronx. Some of the clippings told of the exploits of a "Phantom of the Bronx" who killed two patrolmen and has fired on others in recent months. Others detailed the deaths of other policemen. Pencil marks encircled the officers' names and derogatory remarks about them were written in the margins.

Police said San Filippo's relatives told of his repeated wishes to die ever since he was injured by a motor car some 15 years ago. He formerly had been a cab driver.

The wounded policeman, neither critically injured, are Lieut. James P. McDonnell, called the "most decorated man on the force," and Patrolman Francis Lynch. Both are 38.

Louis Popernick, a bystander, was the only one critically wounded. A bullet was removed from his abdomen last night and his condition was reported as "fair."

Strange Story of A Come-Back Told

Chicago, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A strange story of a come-back under an assumed name was told police today by the widow of Peter F. McGovern, a yardmaster at Proviso, Ill., for the NorthWestern Railroad, a few hours after his death.

Known to his fellow railroad men for nearly 30 years as George F. Gruber, Mrs. Annie McGovern, widow of the 64-year-old man said, he had obtained work with the railroad here by using identification papers loaned to him by a friend after he had been black-listed because of a mistake while working in St. Louis in 1907.

McGovern collapsed and died on a street yesterday. Police identified him as Gruber from papers found in his pocket, but were puzzled by the initials P. F. M. tattooed on his arm.

Their subsequent questioning of his widow about the initials brought from her the story. Both names appeared on the mail box of the apartment in which the couple lived.

Man, 75, Kills Self After Slaying His Brother-in-Law

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Possemen today found the body of Henry Kunz, 75, who authorities said took his life after slaying his brother-in-law, John Kropp, 72, last night.

Both were farmers living near Tioxa.

Authorities said Kropp was shot twice with a pistol in the presence of his wife, Kunz's sister. Kunz ran across a corn field to his own farm, about three-fourths of a mile away, where he was found dead of a bullet wound. Investigators said he had been emotionally disturbed since the death of his wife several years ago.

Kropp was survived by his widow, three daughters and a son. Kunz was survived by a son. Inquests were scheduled for Wednesday.

Experimental

Washington, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The postoffice department is going to give inventors a chance to prove that non-stop rural air mail service is practicable.

Bids will be opened at the department September 15 on four "experimental" routes. The planes must be equipped with special devices for delivering and picking up mail while in flight.

One device, already demonstrated to postal officials, dropped a mail sack at the end of a thin wire which automatically was severed when the sack touched the ground. The plane picked up mail by catching a hook on a line extended between two poles.

The experimental routes will be between Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Huntington, W. Va., and other cities in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Ohio.

13-Inch Cat, of Reputed 2,400-Year Vintage, Arouses St. Louis

St. Louis, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A 13-inch cat—not the soft, purring kind that frolics after mice, but a dull gray metal tabby of reputed 2,400-year vintage—has created a furore in St. Louis art circles.

Neither the authenticity nor the artistic merits of the cat are at issue—it's the $14,000 price tag which has stirred up the rumpus among unionists, "reliefers," women's clubs, the city administration and the art museum.

Many have attacked the museum's purchase of the Egyptian figure, said to date back to the fifth century, 3 C., "when the city's relief needs are in desperate plight."

Striking union building workers, who have picketed the city hall here for several weeks, changed their signs recently to read: "$14,000 for a useless bronze cat—nothing for labor."

"Letters to the editor"—both pro and con—have swamped St. Louis newspapers. One paper commented editorially, "The museum has worked itself into a bad hole with the cat." Another, in an "open letter to a cat," declared, "Your visit is ill-timed."

Some persons even have recommended repeal of the law supporting the art museum by taxation.

Chief defender of the straight-lined animal is the museum's board of control which has termed its purchase one of "the greatest sculptural triumphs of all time," and "the most important object of its kind in America."

Yesterday the men met on a country road. Belles carried a shotgun and Martindale a rifle. Both opened fire, police said.

LATE SUMMER'S BIG ATTRACTION IS COUNTY FAIR

Annual Entertainment at Airport Will Open
August 26th

An outstanding event of the late summer for Dixonites as well as the farmers of this vicinity is the Lee County Fair and Horse Show which will open its gates to the public on August 26 at the Dixon airport.

Dr. Z. W. Moss, one of the directors of the fair association, stated this morning that this year's event is expected to draw even more entries and a larger crowd of visitors than last year's successful show.

Many entries, Dr. Moss stated, are being received for the heavy horse class.

The Lee County Fair is billing attractions for young and old, for ruralites and urbanites and is including education and amusement in three days and nights of events.

Dr. Grover Moss as president of the association and his board of directors have been spending weeks of careful planning to prepare premium lists for classes in dairy cattle, heavy horses, light horses, sheep, poultry and rabbits, agricultural products, domestic art and dairy, apiary and culinary.

Pulling Contest
One of the outstanding attractions will be the horse and mule pulling contest which is to be held on August 27 at 2:30 P. M. Last year the state championship record was made at the local fair.

The local organization is a member of the Northern Illinois Horse Show association, and as such will adhere to and comply with the rules of that group in its programs for the light classes which begin on Friday, August 26, at 8 P. M., and continue on Saturday at the same hour and Sunday afternoon at 2 P. M.

The elite of fine horses will be in the field and classes are included for five gaited, three-gaited and roadster horses, jumpers, ponies and children's classes.

G-MEN SEEK TWO EX-CONVICTS IN KIDNAPING CASE

Missouri Man and Woman Taken to Minnesota and Thrown from Auto

St. Paul, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Working in their usual secrecy, agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation tried today to pick up the trail of two gunmen who kidnaped a man and woman in St. Louis, dumped them out of the man's car near here and sped away.

The car, a small tan sedan, still was unreported. It belonged to Daniel Fahey, Jr., 31, who, with Miss Peggy Gross, 23, was found near Champlin, just north of here, Saturday night, bound with wire and gagged.

They told police two men, who called each other "Jack" and "John", held them up as they sat in Fahey's car near St. Louis early Saturday and brought them to Champlin, where they were bound and left near the road.

Seek Ex-Convicts
Questioned by FBI men yesterday, Fahey and Miss Gross were shown several photographs, but the agents declined to discuss reports the two were shown a picture of Floyd Hamilton, notorious outlaw who was simultaneously reported being hunted with bloodhounds in Arkansas.

Slow Progress

Chicago, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Cooler weather was headed toward Illinois today, but the weather bureau held only slight hope for its arrival.

Charges State Dept.
Has Been Deceptive

Washington, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Chairman John Hamilton of the Republican national committee has accused the state department of using "misleading propaganda" to popularize the administration's reciprocal trade agreements.

In an open letter to Secretary Hull, Hamilton challenged last night what he said were "literally hundreds of deceptive and, in some cases, inaccurate statements."

Hamilton protested that the effect of these statements was to present the trade program in a more favorable light than was justified by the facts. He also questioned Hull's contention that the program had helped to promote peace.

Conceding that "excessive trade barriers do promote world unrest," Hamilton declared: "The only way to lower them is through a multi-lateral agreement."

Dangerous for One Man to Boss State

Ajaccio, Corsica, Aug. 15.—(AP)—France's navy minister, Cesar Campinchi, made the dedication today of a monument to Napoleon the occasion for an attack on dictatorship.

"We must be defiant of personal affairs," Campinchi declared. "It is dangerous for a state to rest upon a single man."

"Certainly a Democratic regime may have its weaknesses, but what are they compared with the dangers of uncontrolled power? Liberty, peace and the future of a nation are too precious to be delivered to one man—even an exceptional man."

THE CLOUDED MOON

By MAX SALTMARSH

THE CHARACTERS

Hugo Stern, handsome author, living on the French Riviera.
 Archie Lumsden, myself, Hugo's friend.
 Rene Geiss, a singularly unpleasant cartoonist.

Yesterday: Geiss is alibied for the murder of the mannequin, Eve Monet, and the American detective, O'Donnell, by a party at his home.

Chapter Seven
 Jean-Francois

The next morning as I was eating breakfast on the terrace, Hugo came towards me, an unlit pipe between his teeth, his face somber.

"The police chief was down at the town hall at noon," he went on. "I've just been talking to him on the phone. The examining magistrate arrived from Grasse at some unearthly hour this morning. Now he proposes to put us all through the hoop."

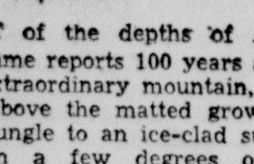

He broke off to pack some tobacco into his pipe. "I don't think we need to worry about the inquiry," he added rather dubiously, "so long as we stick to the truth and nothing but the truth, but not quite the whole truth—which means that I'm still not mentioning the message O'Donnell left for me. I know the French police. They're devilish sharp, but they're suspicious by nature and still more suspicious by cultivated habit of thought, as witness their Code Napoleon, which considers a man guilty until he can prove himself innocent. If I mentioned Pat's message, I should have to tell them the contents of it, and the desperately urgent—counting on you bit would at once make them smell something fishy." He paused to apply a match to his pipe. "I've warned Penelope to keep her mouth shut about the message," said he, "and there the matter ends until I've discovered what poor Pat meant by it."

I stared at him. "Am I to take it from that, that you're proposing to carry out an independent investigation into O'Donnell's death?"

"Just that," he agreed grimly. "As far as the local authorities are aware, O'Donnell was a bond-salesman, presumably on a vacation, but I'm taking a run in the car this afternoon across the Italian frontier. I know a fellow in New York who was a close friend of Pat's and I'll send him a cable from Ventimiglia, reporting his death. He'll know what to do about it. If Pat was over here on business, it's probable his firm will send someone over to investigate and finish the job, but it'll be a matter of ten days before he can arrive, and mean while the scent'll be cold. I intend to carry on myself in the meantime, though I'll be working pretty much in the dark. Archie—" He swung round on me suddenly. "Are you dead set on finishing your yachting trip? I'd be uncommonly glad if you'd stay on here to give me a hand. After all, you took that girl's death to heart, and I've a strong feeling the two crimes are connected."

I hesitated. Mark Lumsden would, I knew, be more than annoyed if I did as Hugo asked, for we had planned this trip on his little ketch for over a year. But on the other hand, there were two other fellows on board, so that I should in no sense be leaving him in the lurch.

• STORIES IN STAMPS

Where Ice Cools The Equator

OUT of the depths of Africa came reports 100 years ago of an extraordinary mountain, soaring above the matted growth of the jungle to an ice-clad summit within a few degrees of the equator. Some scientists met the rumor with derision. No one investigated.

So the mystery of mighty Kilimanjaro remained a secret until finally in 1881 Karl von der Decken, a German scientist, confirmed the report about the mountain made by Johann Rebmann, an English missionary, 13 years before. The Paris Geographical Society conferred a medal on Rebmann and his associate, Krapf Ludwig. Thereafter interest in the peak rose keenly.

Several expeditions sought its summit. Charles New, a missionary, reached the snow line at 14,000 feet before he was forced to descend, and Joseph Thompson of the Royal Geographical Society was the first to work his way around the north side. Forty years after it had been first sighted, Dr. Hans Meyer and Ludwig Purtscheller stood upon Kilimanjaro's summit. Since that date, 1889, a number of explorers have scaled the peak.

Kilimanjaro rises abruptly from the plains and culminates actually in two peaks, one 17,500 and one 19,728 feet high. The peak of Kibo, the tallest, has a crater over 6000 feet in circumference and 600 feet deep. Kilimanjaro is shown here on a stamp of Tanganyika, British protectorate since the World War. It was formerly German territory.

and even as the last, excusing thought came to me, I knew that I had decided.

"All right," I said, "I'll stay," and felt as I spoke the words a queer, premonitory tingle, half dread, half excitement, run through me.

"Good man!" said he, and held out a muscular hand. "Shake on it!"

He broke off sharply, gave a sudden, inarticulate howl of rage, and swung his legs over the balustrade. Next instant from the lower terrace came sounds closely resembling a dog-fight. I disentangled myself from my breakfast table and in two strides was at the marble rail, peering over. For a moment all I could see were two struggling bodies, one in red and black, the other in dingy gray, rolling over and over at the foot of a gnarled and ancient olive tree; but as I looked they disentangled themselves and Hugo got to his feet, dragging with him by the coat-collar a crumpled figure.

A Little Investigating

It was a young lad, hardly more than a boy, with a sallow, handsome face, long sloe-like eyes, and a mop of ruffled black hair, and to my surprise he made no effort to struggle against the rough-house he was going through, but hung limp in Hugo's hands, making what appeared to be deprecating and conciliatory noises.

"Pardon, monsieur," he gasped. "I beg of you to let me go! I apologize for the intrusion."

Hugo snorted with disgust. "Another of these French reporters," he observed to me. "Couldn't get in at the front and comes snooping round over the wall to see what he could eavesdrop." He swung back on the lad, raising a menacing fist. "Be off with you now," he said warningly. "And make it snappy if you want to keep a whole seat to your pants."

The lad looked from one to the other of us appealing. "But, monsieur," he implored, "one little word is all I ask—one small photograph," and he stopped, agile as a monkey, but with a cautious eye on Hugo's foot and retrieved from the long grass something that I saw to be a bulky press-camera.

"Just a minute," I said quickly. "Let me handle this, will you?" Hugo stared at me. "As you like," he agreed grudgingly, and added on a warning note: "Don't watch your step, Archie. Don't give anything away."

"Not on your life," I reassured him, and I motioned to the lad to follow me along the terrace to the boundary wall.

"Now then," I said, "let's get this straightened out. What paper do you represent?"

"The Marseille Soir, monsieur," he answered nervously.

"The Marseille Soir?" I repeated. "Not a big paper, I take it, and this, I wouldn't wonder, is your first job?"

He nodded.

"I see," said I. "Your first big chance, and you would risk anything to make good. Well, now, just what did you want—a photograph or two?"

"And a story, monsieur," he said eagerly. "A small, little word! It would mean—" he drew himself up, throwing out his puny chest—"my future—my career!"

"Oh," said I, reflecting that the paper must indeed be a small one if it combined cameraman and reporter in one person. "Well, see here. I've a proposition to make to you. I can't give you a story, but I might come to an arrangement with you. How much does your paper pay you?"

He flushed at that. "There is no regular emolument," he admitted. "It is a matter of commission."

"Better and better," said I. "Then you're a free-lance and your time is your own? I take it you would be able, if funds were available, to stay on here in Cannes—provided, of course, there was a story to be written up at the end of the time?"

He nodded vigorously. His face was puzzled, but his eyes were brightly intelligent.

"Well," I said, "the position is this. I may want certain information that I'm not in a position to obtain myself, and if, in the meantime, I allow you to take a photograph of me, and if, say for the next fortnight, I pay you a certain sum per day to enable you to stay on here, I take it that you'd be willing to do a little investigating for me in your spare time?"

The Red Delage

The boy stared at me, and for a moment I fancied there were tears in his eyes. "Monsieur," he said very solemnly, "I am your man. I, Jean-Francois Lubec! Though I am Marseillais, my grandmother lives in Cannes, and I know the town as I know this," and he kissed the back of his hand. "I can stay with her without comment, and what you wish to know I can discover for you."

"May it be so!" I assented piously. I presented him with a couple of hundred-franc notes. "That's for the first two days," I said. "You can meet me by the wall here every evening at, say ten o'clock and report progress, and now take your blooming photograph and be off with you—"

He posed me with artistic care against the wall and did his stuff, and then as he unsling his big instrument, he looked up at me curiously. And the information,

UNEASINESS IS SPREADING OVER ALL OF EUROPE

Alarms Stalk Whole of Continent; Diplomats Seek Reassurance

London, Aug. 15.—(AP)—While alarms stalked through Europe today, the British war office warned all Britons holding military rank that they must get special certificates in order to avoid "trouble" if and when they travel in Germany.

Almost simultaneously France clamped down regulations virtually forbidding French citizens to go to Italy, whose relations with France steadily have become colder since Adolf Hitler's Italian visit last May.

The French foreign office announced special visas and special reasons must be had before Frenchmen can visit Italy. This was in retaliation for an unexplained Italian refusal or reluctance to give Italians papers needed for traveling in France.

Diplomats in European capitals strove, meanwhile, to make a coherent picture of the international situation from developments and disclosures in the past 36 hours, such as these:

Germany hastened preparations for giant maneuvers next month of the regular army, already capable of overnight action; reserve units which have not participated in such maneuvers with the army since the World War, and, possibly World War veterans between 35 and 45 years.

To Store Grain

The Nazi government decreed the requisitioning of grain storage rooms for the bumper German crop; officials announced anyone disclosing industrial secrets to foreigners would be imprisoned; under a law of July 18 horses, trucks and busses and Nazi buildings have been requisitioned.

In London the continuing demand for gold mirrored European tension as buyers tried to get greater measures of security for their property.

The Czechoslovak government tried to prevent publication of a declaration by the Czechoslovak Army Officers' Society that there could be "no retreat" in keeping Czechoslovakia's integrity.

Members of the little entente, Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia, were uneasy, too. Balkan diplomats believed the trio would offer Hungary non-aggression pacts, military equality and perhaps other favors in efforts to reduce growing German influence in Hungary.

MANEUVERS BEGIN

Berlin, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Germany's army reserve units began fall maneuvers today in what appeared to be a gigantic demonstration to test the speed and facility of motorized army transport.

Although other countries, notably Britain and France, gave evidence of grave concern at the magnitude of the maneuvers, an effort was made here to calm what were termed monieur?" he asked. "What is the first inquiry to be?"

"Just this," I told him. "I want you to find out whatever you can about Monsieur Rene Geiss; his habits of life, his domestic staff and arrangements, and his friends; and particularly I want to hear something about the party he was giving last night."

He gave me another sharp upward look, full of comprehension. "Monsieur," he said softly, "I will find out what I can, and especially I will try to find out where Monsieur Geiss was from the time he left his villa at ten-thirty last night until he returned to it at midnight."

It was very still there on the sun-filled terrace among the olive trees. For an instant I stared at the lad; then I took a swift step forward and gripped him by the shoulder.

"And what the devil do you mean by that?" I demanded.

He disengaged himself, grimacing with pain. "Nothing more than I said, but you understand that Monsieur Geiss is always news, and in the course of talk this morning with my conferees—"

Again he threw out his chest proudly. "One mentioned that at half past ten last night he had seen Monsieur Geiss slip out on foot from the small garden door that leads into the lane at the side of his house. Then another colleague spoke up and said that he had seen Monsieur Geiss return in his car at midnight and leave it in the garage at the corner of the rue du Dragon, where he is accustomed to keep it. I was sufficiently impressed by the discrepancy in the stories to offer a cigarette to the mechanic at the garage and heard from him that it was so. The car of Monsieur Geiss, a red Delage, was taken out by another gentleman, a dark gentleman of medium height—here he eyed me oddly—"

"at nine in the evening."

"Jean-Francois," I said solemnly, "you're worth your weight in more than cigarettes. Get on with the job. I feel, somehow, that you don't need any more instructions from me."

ed "exaggerated and disturbing reports."

Preparations for the two weeks of reserve training were noted chiefly in southern Germany (close to Czechoslovakia and to France) but they extended also to the districts around the capital.

Military observers estimated the number of men participating at from 500,000 to a possible 1,000,000. Berlin citizens planning week-ends in the country found placards at suburban bus stations announcing the regular postal department bus lines, connecting stations with lakes and other vacation spots, had been discontinued "temporarily."

Rumors current in rural sections said the buses were requisitioned by military authorities for the fall games. Reports from Munich told similarly of automobiles and trucks requisitioned.

Europe's Concern

It was believed the army planned to depend chiefly upon motor vehicles as its means of transportation, trying to avoid commandeering of railways, to permit movement on a war-time basis in unfamiliar territory.

Europe's concern was that the maneuvers were to be close to the frontier and that some incident might provoke a conflict with Czechoslovakia. Relations of the two nations already are strained by Nazi sympathy for the demands for autonomy in government by the sudeten German minority in Czechoslovakia.

Today's maneuvers were preliminary to so-called district war games, which will be held in practically every section of the country starting about September 1.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

New York, Aug. 15.—This is the day Europe's dame rumor—a neurotic lady of questionable stability—has advertised in her everlasting tea-table gossip as der tag for a military invasion of Czechoslovakia by Nazi Germany.

That sort of thing is like yelling

Up in the Air About the Whole Thing

In this remarkable action picture, Pat Cunningham's midget automobile racing car practically takes off as he soars over the rail at Santa Maria, Calif. Bob Swanson whizzes by, for it's no time to be looking back.

"fire" in a crowded theatre, and she naturally has succeeded in causing a considerable panic throughout most of Europe.

And as always the case in a panic, the danger to life and limb is vastly increased. That is to say, there is much more prospect of an explosion simply because jittery countries see a hold-up man on every dark corner and are creeping about with uncertain fingers twitching on the triggers of their pistols.

About the coolest of the lot is unemotional Britain, the "police-man of Europe." If John Bull is worried (and one suspects he may be somewhat uneasy) he is making a rather convincing display of unconcern on the surface. Without raising his voice in too much emphasis he has been pooh-poohing dame rumor's gossip.

Still, the Briton is adept at concealing his emotions. I've seen a British officer stalk straight into the death zone on the battle front with a broad grin on his face.

Maybe dame rumor is right in its time. Certainly there is sufficient circumstantial evidence to warrant uneasiness.

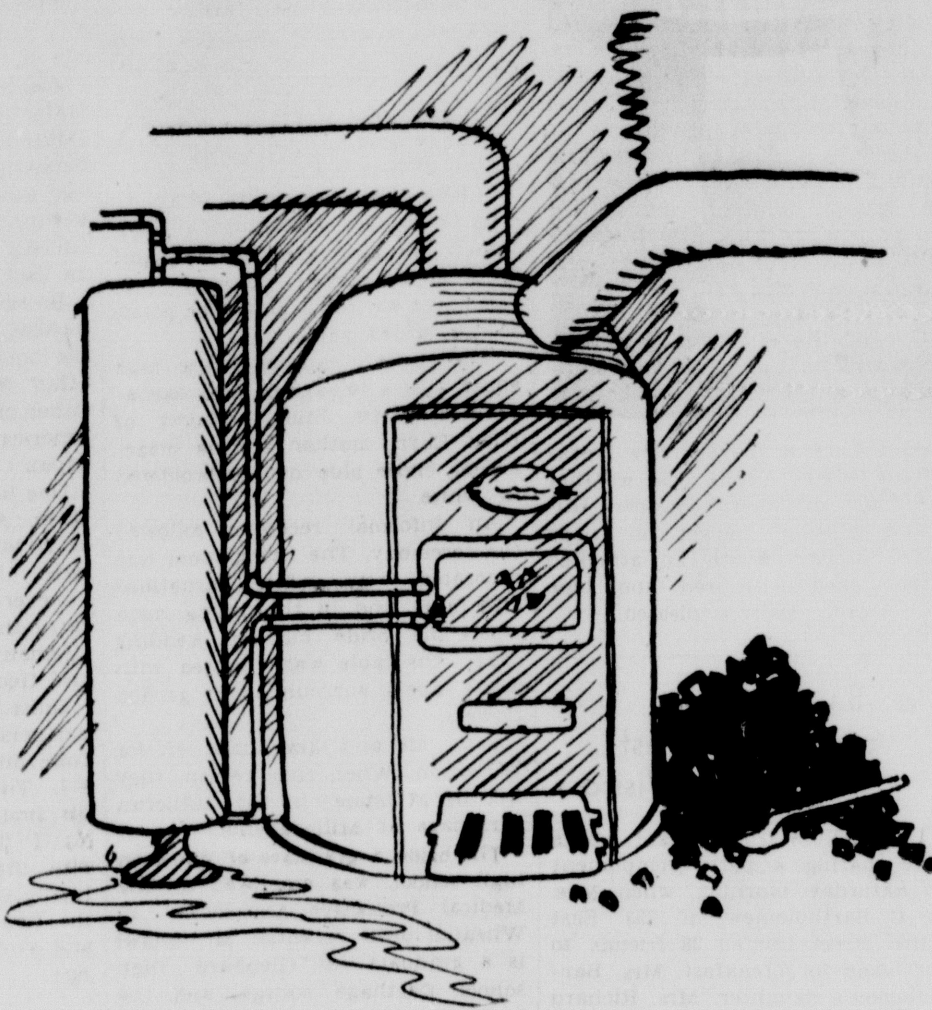

Germany is engaged in vast army maneuvers; Italy, too, has been engaged in maneuvers, and Mussolini has sounded the dangers of war again in one of his graphic speeches; France virtually has forbidden her citizens to visit Italy, this being in retaliation for Italian reluctance to grant passports for travel in Europe. It isn't a reassuring picture.

Roosevelt Is to Speak This Eve Social Security

Washington, Aug. 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's address on Social Security this evening, his secretary announced, will be "very general" in nature.

The secretary, Stephen Early, said the President would be one of several speakers on the program and would talk about five minutes.

The occasion for the nation-wide radio broadcast is the third anniversary of the Social Security act. That act is the keystone of the President's social reform program and, if he chooses, he could ask for the election of congressmen who would support all of his objectives. There will be no naming of names, however, Early said.

... free hot Water? Absolutely Not!

Tests conducted by leading universities PROVE that 1-5 of your fuel supply is wastefully used by the furnace coil

Are you being fooled by the "free hot water" myth? If your furnace coil gives free hot water why not pipe it to all of your neighbors? Unbiased tests show that the furnace coil is wasteful and inefficient; on an average it will use 20% of your total fuel supply. That is certainly a high price for "part-time" hot water service.

An automatic Gas Water Heater will give you a constant supply of hot water, the same temperature the year around. Due to our Special Low Gas Rate for automatic water heating the cost of this service is less per gallon of hot water, than your present "part-time" water heating costs.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white mousseline de soie, with a wreath of valley lilies holding her finger tip veil in place. Calla lilies formed her bridal bouquet.

Lutheran Minister at Milledgeville Weds in Wheaton

A wedding of interest in this vicinity is that of Miss Florence Wenzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wenzel of 733 Naperville street, Wheaton, and the Rev. Raymond C. Shawl, former resident of Ohio who was recently ordained, and is now pastor of the Lutheran church at Milledgeville. The nuptials were solemnized Sunday evening July 31, in a garden ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

The Rev. Luther Mueller of Harvard, Ill., former classmate of the bridegroom at Carthage college and the Chicago Lutheran Seminary at Maywood, assisted by the Rev. George J. Curran of St. Paul's English Lutheran church in Wheaton, officiated.

Tall baskets of Easter lilies and white gladioli, against a background of ivy and garden flowers furnished the setting for the bride party.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white net over white satin with fitted bodice and very full skirt formed of knife-pleated net flounces. Her fingertip veil was held to her head by a coronet of orange blossoms, fashioned of seed pearls, and she carried valley lilies and white roses.

Miss Dorothy Wenzel was her sister's only attendant. Her gown was of pink chiffon over a slip of the same delicate tint, and her flowers were gardenias and blue corn flowers. Jesse Wagner, Jr. of Glen Ellyn served as best man.

Little Miss Jacqueline Hiatt of Glen Ellyn, the bridegroom's niece, was flower girl. She wore a quaint frock of applegreen organdy over satin, and scattered pink rose petals in the bride's path.

Bronwich, the 19-year-old, two-handed racket swinger, became the "question mark" of the whole affair when he failed to win either of his singles matches in the American zone final against Japan.

Due to the steady work of Adrian Quist, Australia won the series, 3 to 2, to qualify for the interzone series. There's considerable doubt, however, that Quist will be able to carry the entire burden against Germany's pair of Henner Henkel and Georg Von Metaxa.

Quist clinched the series yesterday when he took a hard match from Jiro Yamagishi, 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 9-7. Then Bronwich, who had lost his first singles match to Japan's No. 1 player, battled to a draw with little Fumiteru Nakano and finally defaulted after 24 games of the fifth set to save his strength and avoid the possibility of an injury.

The bride, a graduate of Wheaton high school, was employed by the Medical Protective Association in Wheaton until recently. Mr. Shawl is a graduate of Glenbard high school, Carthage college, and the Lutheran Seminary at Maywood.

Miller is accepting reservations.

A resume of the college history being compiled by S. M. Brown of Amboy, promises to be an interesting highlight of the reunion program. Mr. Brown is still accepting material for the history which probably won't be completed for several months.

Mrs. E. D. Alexander, Mrs. David E. Bigelow, Mrs. Mary Deutsch and Miss Anne Eustace made up a luncheon foursome at the Pines on Friday.

MINISTER WAS ASTOUNDED BY OCEAN FLIGHT

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—John Cudahy, United States minister to Ireland, said on his arrival from Europe today he still was astounded by Douglas Corrigan's flight to Dublin last month.

"When I saw his plane I was amazed," said the diplomat, grinning at the recollection. "Why it was nothing but an orange crate covered with grease, and I wouldn't fly across the street with it!"

Cudahy, who returned on the Normandie for three weeks in the United States, cut through the international red tape attendant upon Corrigan's arrival in a foreign country without passports, visas, or department of commerce permission. He was host at the American legation to the flier.

As to whether Corrigan gave his diplomatic representative any other explanation than "surprise" at finding he had flown the Atlantic, Cudahy was non-committal.

"Well," said the minister, "he told me a lot of things confidentially. I think he planned his flight well. He staked everything in the hope he could become a pilot with an airline or head of the mechanical department of some aviation manufacturing organization."

Australians Meet Germans for Davis Cup Zone Finals

Montreal, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Australia will oppose Germany in the Davis Cup interzone finals at Brookline, Mass., late this week, but whether the Aussies will go on to the challenge round against the United States seems to depend upon Jack Bromwich.

Bromwich, the 19-year-old, two-handed racket swinger, became the "question mark" of the whole affair when he failed to win either of his singles matches in the American zone final against Japan.

Due to the steady work of Adrian Quist, Australia won the series, 3 to 2, to qualify for the interzone series. There's considerable doubt, however, that Quist will be able to carry the entire burden against Germany's pair of Henner Henkel and Georg Von Metaxa.

Negro Confesses to Chicagoan's Murder

Chicago, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Police Captain Walter Healy said today a Negro youth had confessed the slaying Friday of Wesley Van Norman, 39, head of the Van Norman Moulding Company, during an attempted robbery.

Wesley Boatright, 17, admitted, Capt. Healy said, that he punched Van Norman, who fell and struck his head on the sidewalk. Capt. Healy said Boatright named two other Negroes as his accomplices.

One of those named by Boatright, Charles Ainslee, 16, also was in custody. The third man was sought. Healy said Ainslee admitted, but later denied, that he was involved.

Boatright told him, Captain Healy said, that he and his companions approached Van Norman to ask for a cigarette and then decided to rob him.

LAFFOON WINS CLEVELAND'S OPEN TOURNEY

Cleveland, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Ky Laffoon, Chicago putting master, was $3,000 richer today for winning first place in the $10,000 Cleveland open golf tournament scratched from under the noses of Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Bill Burke of Cleveland.

Snead and Burke played together on the last round of the four-day medal score meet. Burke dropped a careful birdie on the last hole for 210-72-282.

"Slammin' Sam" blazed out a four-under-par 67 on the final round for 214-67-281.

Out on the course Laffoon heard and said "It's Snead again." But steadily he came on, giving the boys a putting lesson. He sank two from over 40 feet out. A gallery of thousands saw him come up on the last green under par for 210-70-280 and victory.

Snead also showed the importance of putting, using only 28 putts on his last round. He collected $1,500. Burke got $800.

Tied for fourth at 285 were Ray Mangrum, Pittsburgh; Ralph Gulcahl, Madison, N. J., national open champion; E. J. Harrison, Chicago, and Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J. They won $475 each.

The heaviest loser was Leo Diegel, veteran Philadelphia campaigner, who wound up in a hospital. After one of his rounds he went for some popcorn and was struck by an auto as he walked across a six-lane high speed thoroughfare. They were taking x-ray pictures today to determine the possibility of skull and thumb fractures.

THE PURGE RESUMED

Upon President Roosevelt's return to the United States from his fishing trip he resumed his attempts to control the nomination of United States senators. One of his pet peeves is Senator George of Georgia, who seeks to be renominated in the primaries on September 14. Senator Walter F. George opposed the president's plan to nullify the supreme court; he opposed the governmental reorganization plan, through which Roosevelt would have emerged a virtual dictator, and he fought the wages and hours bill. To oppose Senator George in the primaries Roosevelt has selected District Attorney Lawrence Camp of Atlanta. At a luncheon at Warm Springs the president already has introduced Camp as a "gentleman who I hope will be the next senator from this state."

The dangerous nature of such a proceeding may not be evident to every one. From time to time we shall publish in this column a review of how another great republic succumbed to a series of men who, pretending or perhaps intending to work for the benefit of the forgotten man, pretending to help the poor and unfortunate, gathered unto themselves more and more power; enmeshed the republic in a series of practical difficulties and eventually caused the government to descend into monarchy, then anarchy and at last, utter ruin.

Those who have visited New York may have noted the great Pennsylvania station. They may have marveled at its architectural elegance. Some of these architectural features were adapted from the great baths of Caracalla, built during the days of the Roman empire. Most of us have had a misconception of the civilization of the empire. To get a glimpse of its elegance; to obtain a suggestion of the genius by which it was featured, and the economic system which made possible the construction of building and stadiums that amaze us even today, examine the Pennsylvania station in New York if you go there.

Yet this civilization vanished. Augustus found Rome a city of bricks, and made it a city of marble. Caracalla and his successors found a marble civilization and left it a civilization of mud huts plunged into the dark ages.

Of course, we are smarter than the Romans. We never would permit a magistrate to dictate the choice of senators and representatives even if he wanted to. We never would allow any man, no matter how good his intentions, to use public money to swing an election, even if he wished to.

The Romans may be excused because they did not have the example of the decline and fall of a Roman empire before them. We have such an example. Still, we are people, and human nature remains the same through centuries. The Romans who ruined their civilization did not intend to hurt anybody. They were going to help the forgotten man. They promised a New Deal to the Roman people, and in succeeding days we shall present reviews of how this worked out.

LET THEM SWING

Swing music, which is described in musically elegant quarters as a national menace to good taste, is the source of a great deal of worry. As described by those who have seen the craze at its height, or depth, the rhythm and blue notes, or whatever they are, get under the skins of the young and make the boys and girls cut most undignified capers.

Without having undertaken any research, we remember that ragtime occasioned some anxiety among those devoted to the cause of good music. There also was jazz music, and a craze for torch singers was evident shortly before swing shattered the welkin. They all sound alike to the untutored souls who must grin and bear them, and none of them sounds good to the experts.

We have a suspicion that swing will swing itself out some of these days, and be succeeded by something else just as inelegant. Every branch of art must have its low forms for the benefit of those unable to attain proficiency. There is futuristic poetry, which is a mere jumble of words suggesting Gertrude Stein's outbreaks. There is a cubist art, and impressionistic painting, or they may be one and the same. We have seen statues that resembled what might be mistaken for the output of a lunatic asylum, and then there is this new stuff called surrealism. It is democracy. With such standards anybody can be a poet, painter or sculptor.

So long as swing persists its addicts will not be engaged in something that might be more ridiculous. One commentator believes that the county soon shall reach that point of eccentricity beyond which no one can go, and then it shall snap back to sanity. Maybe, then, we shall see the waltz or even the minuet, and the artists shall get a break.

By the way, what is the most popular song in the United States? You're right. It's the old church song, "The Old Rugged Cross."

REMINISCENCE

A little more than a century ago the United States government actually found itself with surplus money in the treasury. The sum was $28,101,644. For some time congress wondered what to do with such a sum. Suggestions that the money be distributed among the states were opposed with vigor on the ground that such action would be demoralizing and would pauperize the people. At last the problem was solved by distributing the money among the states and calling it a non-interest bearing loan with the tacit understanding that no repayment was expected.

Contrast that with the federal government's plight today.

Washington—How far Mr. Hull's career boys are leaning backward to prevent any aid to Loyalist Spain is indicated by the recent disclosure that they even refused the president of Spain the right to obtain an American car similar to that used by President Roosevelt.

The car is a Chrysler, equipped with thick windshield glass and body containing armor plate capable of withstanding revolver shots, but not rifle bullets. Attorney General Cummings and J. Edgar Hoover have similar cars, but when the Spanish ambassador some time ago requested that the State department permit the shipment of one to the president of Spain, he got a flat turn-down.

Under President Roosevelt's proclamation imposing an arms embargo against Spain, he bars "military armament vehicles," but says nothing about armored passenger cars. However, Joe Green, in charge of Hull's munitions control board went one step further. He drafted a curt note informing the Ambassador that the car intended to ward off assassins' bullets from the president of Spain could not be shipped.

Since the Spanish government had already paid for it, the car is now gathering dust in a New York storeroom.

In Wrong Corrigan

Maybe government officials just naturally lack a sense of humor, but some of them in the Bureau of Air Commerce are still sore about "Wrong-way" Corrigan.

What they are particularly sore at is the fact that they licensed his "crate" when he put in super-sized gas tanks. They should have known, they now admit, that no such tanks were needed for domestic flying.

So in the future they are going to refuse licenses to all planes with super-gas tanks unless they are admittedly for flying across the ocean.

Dick Merrill, only man to make two round trip flights across the Atlantic, was recently fined for getting lost in the woods of eastern Pennsylvania while en route to Newark. He had a shipload of passengers, and there was nothing phony about it. He was really "lost."

The contrast is what makes Corrigan's clowning all the more amusing.

Idaho Primary

Two things liked Idaho's New Deal Senator Jim Pope:

- 1. Utility money.
- 2. Borah votes.

Both factors operated completely sub rosa.

The utility interest poured a barrel of money into Representative D. Worth Clark's campaign. He has consistently supported their side throughout his House career, so they opened their coffers and...

Brain Twizzlers

By PROF. J. D. FLINT

You have probably seen many signs and bulletins in forest preserves, national parks and elsewhere which tell how to take care of public property, where to put what when you have finished your visit and how to avoid various dangers. Well, here is a little picnic mystery to solve—you arrive in the forest preserve for a picnic. Someone has been at the spot you select ahead of you. On a table is food for three. Hot dogs and coffee are still cooking on a fire although a little overcooked. Everything is all set but there is no butter on the butterplanes although butter has obviously been on them a short while before. Automobile tracks show where a car has been and where it skidded around a curve. What happened to the picnickers?

There are lots of good clues, do you see them?

Answer to Saturday's Twizzler
The numbers that are left after the nine strike-outs are:

went to bat for him in a big way. This was particularly true in the last few days of the contest, when utility money made its appearance in big gobs.

The Borah vote for Clark was a more circuitous matter. The veteran Republican senator took no part in the campaign. In fact, he was seriously ill in Washington during part of it. But he made no secret to friends of his antipathy to Pope and approval of Clark.

Whether Borah actually suggested the strategy that Republicans go into the Democratic primary and vote for Clark has not been definitely established. But that is exactly what Borah's friends did. In a state with less than 80,000 votes, the GOP block was enough to turn the scales narrowly for Clark.

Note—Borah's private dislike of Pope dates back to 1934 when the latter, still a rookie senator, made a trip to Europe and voiced some pro-League of Nations views. Borah, an irreconcilable isolationist, strongly resented Pope's action and never forgave him for it. Besides, Borah is not accustomed to having "another" senator from Idaho.

Four Musketeers

The death of Justice Cardozo reunited a potent New Deal legal team—Corcoran, Cohen, Rowe and Raub.

Joseph Raub left the quartet several years ago to become secretary to the late justice, who employed Raub on the recommendation of Ben Cohen, Cardozo's closest friend in Washington. Raub is now back with Cohen on the PWA legal staff.

Tom Corcoran and Jim Rowe, the other two members of the four musketeers, both are one-time secretaries of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. Until recently Rowe was an assistant to White House Secretary Jimmy Roosevelt, but now is working with Corcoran.

So the crusading Brain Trusters form a powerful, compact unit once again.

Merry-Go-Round

Most omniscient business prognosticator in the U. S. A. has turned out to be Willis Ballinger, hard-working economist for the Federal Trade Commission. Last February "News-Week" asked twenty leading economists throughout the country to predict when the general trend of business would pick up and what the business indexes would be in May and June. Ballinger forecast that business would begin an upturn in June and that the index figures for May and June would be 76 and 77 respectively. This hits the bulls-eye.

Homecraft suggestion from the AAA's lively "Consumers' Guide": "Boiling water poured from a height of three or four feet on a stained colofort or line material is especially effective for removing fresh coffee, tea, and fruit stains."

To help it in setting up regulations for the truck and bus industry, the Interstate Commerce Commission has asked the U. S. Public Health Service to make a study of the working conditions of the drivers.

Thurman Arnold, lately of the Yale law school faculty, has already booked three young Yale law graduates to join his staff of Justice department trust-busters.

West Coast War

Washington is keeping a worried eye upon the announcement of affiliation between the Seamen's union of the Pacific with the A. F. of L. to form a nationwide semi-industrial union. Administration members recognize this as the most sinister threat of labor strife since the days of NRA.

Also they are afraid of bloody battles fought along the entire waterfront of the west coast, for the AFL move is nothing short of a bristling declaration of war on CIO's National Maritime union. That the Maritime union will fight back with every resource at its command is beyond question. Not only is its existence at stake, but also involved are fierce personal vendettas and clashing ambitions. USFHP

Boss of the Seamen's union is Harry Lundeberg, burly, cocky fighter consumed with ambition to make himself czar of maritime labor. In 1934, Lundeberg supported Harry Bridges' longshoremen in their turbulent strikes. But after Bridges took his union into the CIO and became head of the Maritime union, Lundeberg broke off friendly relations.

As Bridges' power and influence expanded, Lundeberg became increasingly envious and hostile. As early as last year, he opened secret negotiations with the A. F. of L. to join forces in setting up a rival industrial maritime union.

Lundeberg would have gone through with this plan then, but among his rank-and-file is a deep-rooted animosity toward the federation, the result of many years unhappy experience under the one-time International Seamen's union, which the N. M. U. replaced. He had to proceed warily.

After months of aggressive proselytizing, Lundeberg held a referendum among his west coast locals which he claims gave him a decisive authorization to go ahead. Federation chiefs welcomed him with open arms, for they had been itching for a long time for a chance to strike a blow at the CIO's growing dominance in the maritime sphere.

Teamsters Included

Lundeberg was promised that at the next meeting of the Federation's executive council, they would establish a new maritime department, with him at its head, and comprising not only seamen and longshoremen but all licensed maritime personnel and teamsters.

The inclusion of the teamsters is of vital strategic significance. They control the handling of freight from the docks to plants and warehouses, and with them on his side Lundeberg is in a position through the boycott to strike smashing blows at CIO longshoremen and seamen by tying up whole ports.

Such tactics, of course, are certain to lead to murderous battles. That also holds true for the announced AFL plan to send organizers into the Eastern, Great Lakes and Gulf waterfronts to raid Maritime union ranks.

Profoundly alarmed by the menacing situation, government labor executives have had several secret discussions of means to avoid the looming warfare. Nothing concrete, however, has emerged from these talks and unless the president himself intervenes, it looks as if nothing can prevent the outbreak of costly violence.

CAREFULLY PICK-ED JURORS WILL HEAR N. Y. TRIAL

New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Approximately 300 veniremen crowded into Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora's courtroom today as opposing counsel met to select 12 jurors and two alternates who will hear evidence in the policy racket trial of James J. Hines, Tammany district leader.

Before this jury, taken from a special panel chosen for "alertness, intelligence and common sense," District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey will submit his charges that Hines participated in the control and profits of a $100,000,000 policy racket.

Staked on the outcome of the trial, most spectacular semi-political case here in 25 years or more, are two careers—those of both the young prosecutor, who has never lost a racket case, and Hines, gray veteran of a rough-and-tumble campaigning era.

Also dependent on the jury's verdict, to a degree, is the future of Tammany Hall itself, already twice stunned and tottering from the blows of the Dewey-Laguard forces at the polls.

Only one of eight defendants under arrest—J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, Schultz's attorney general and heir; George Weinberg, captain of the Schultz strong-arm squad, who was arrested with Davis in Philadelphia February 2, and "Big Harry" Schoenhaut, the only man Schultz trusted with his money—all have pleaded guilty and will testify for the state.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

"THE MARKS OF A CLEAR MIND"

"The fondest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea." (Bagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Certainly they do, and rightly so. A woman's concern grows primarily out of the biological fact that she is the mother of the race and her period of attractiveness for motherhood steadily decreases after youth. Later on, of course, other attitudes and values of life, and reasons for trying to remain attractive to the opposite sex emerge, but the origin of her concern over the matter of age lies no doubt in the fact of her being the natural guardian of the life of the race.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. The answer hinges on whether

Dad has a passion for music or a passion to be considered a musician. There's a world of difference.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. If he isn't then we had better give up the whole idea of education, for, as the great Thomas Huxley maintained, the function of education is to make people "conscious of basic human needs" and how to fulfill them for ourselves and others. The story of the Prodigal Son—the first and greatest of all short stories—answers the question completely—give responsibility to every one according to his several ability—and surely college does increase one's ability.

OUSTER FOR CIO UNION HEAD AIM OF REBEL GROUP

Detroit, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Opponents of Homer Martin, led by four expelled officers of the United Automobile Workers of America, proceeded to day with plans to seek his removal as president of the C. I. O. union.

They laid ground-work for their campaign in a week-end meeting at Toledo and will return to that city next Saturday to further arrangements which they hope will lead to a special convention of the international union.

The "rebels" saying that presidents of 75 U. A. W. A. locals were present, rejected a proposal by Walter Reuther, president of Detroit's west side local, that John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, be asked to intervene to restore harmony between the union's Martin and anti-Martin factions.

The meeting approved a resolution asking locals to send their per capita taxes to C. I. O. headquarters in Washington instead of the Martin-controlled U. A. W. A. headquarters in Detroit.

The recently-expelled officers who were the prime movers in the Toledo gathering are Richard T. Frankenstein, Ed Hall and Wyndham Mortimer, former vice presidents, and George F. Addes, former secretary-treasurer.

Only a few blocks from the Toledo hotel that housed the "rebel" meeting, another group of U. A. W. A. leaders, loyal to Martin and headed by the only remaining international officer besides him, Vice President R. J. Thomas, also was in session.

The Martinites, Thomas said, adopted resolutions reaffirming their loyalty to the C. I. O.

JAPS ADVANCE IN CHINA SLOWS TO SNAIL'S PACE

Shanghai, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A survey of the Yangtze front showed today that Japanese gains had been almost negligible since the capture of Kiangling July 26, despite bitter fighting on both sides of the river and heavy aerial bombardments.

A Japanese column which struck southward from Kiangling along the Nanchang railway 20 days ago has advanced only 12 miles and is now engaged with strongly entrenched Chinese troops in the hills near Shaochen.

Another Japanese force operating south of the Yangtze has advanced 25 miles from Kiangling toward Juchang, but is meeting desperate resistance on the shores of Red lake and in the hills before Juchang.

Japanese army reports said the fall of Juchang was imminent, but military observers pointed out that the capture of the town still would leave the invaders a difficult advance of 85 miles to their goal, the Canton-Hankow railway, which they hope to cut south of the provisional capital.

On the north bank of the river, the Japanese have spent the past 12 days fighting off repeated Chinese counter-attacks without advancing a mile nearer Hankow.

Latest Chinese dispatches from the front said Hwangnei, 20 miles north of Kiangling, had changed hands twice and that heavy fighting was in progress there. The dispatches said each side had suffered a thousand casualties around Hwangnei.

The Chinese said they had taken the offensive in Chekiang province, southwest of Shanghai, and had recaptured Guyang and were attacking Yuhang, the only major points where the Japanese had been able to advance beyond Hangchow since Christmas Eve.

Zion to Have Its First High School

Zion, Ill., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Residents and Benton townships were assured today their children will have a high school soon—the first in the district.

Overriding opposition of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, citizens voted Saturday a $165,000 bond issue by a slim majority of 193 of the 3,026 votes cast. A PWA grant of $135,000 will enable the district to build a structure costing $300,000.

In the past, students from Zion and Benton have attended high school at Waukegan and Gurnee with their tuition paid by the townships.

Voliva, overseer of the Christian Catholic Church, campaigned against the bond issue, contending it would result in more taxes.

FRONTIER TRUCE NEAR COLLAPSE MOSCOW STATES

Counter Charges Made by Tokyo Government This Morning

Moscow, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Soviet government indicated today the carrying out of the Changkufeng armistice agreement had been delayed by new border difficulties which almost resulted in an armed clash shortly after the truce went into effect August 11.

The difficulties were disclosed in a Soviet communiqué last night stating that a new outbreak of fighting on the disputed Siberian-Korean frontier narrowly had been averted when Japanese troops moved into advanced positions after the truce.

The troops were withdrawn, the announcement said, after Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff warned Japanese Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu that "the U. S. S. R. will consider the armistice violated" if they were permitted to hold their new positions.

Still Dissatisfied

While Japanese compliance with Litvinoff's demand removed dangers of an immediate clash, the Soviet government was said still to be dissatisfied with the attitude of Japanese military representatives at Changkufeng.

The latter, according to the communiqué, refused to sign the armistice agreement and a map indicating the respective positions of troops, explaining that they "awaited instructions from the higher command."

A Japanese war office announcement Saturday said military representatives of both sides had signed a memorandum pledging themselves to avoid further incidents in the area and that a map marking troop positions at the time the truce was declared was expected to be signed Saturday.

COUNTER CHARGE MADE

Tokyo, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Domei (Japanese news agency) said today Soviet Russian troops had violated the Changkufeng truce by constructing dugouts within the no-man's land agreed upon when the border fighting was ended August 11.

The news agency said the Japanese had protested to General Sherm, chief of staff of the far eastern Red army, and he had promised to enforce observance of the truce, but that Soviet troops continued to build dugouts in the 160-yard wide neutral zone separating the Japanese and Russians along the four-mile front.

BITTER HAND-TO-HAND FIGHTING IN SPANISH WAR

Hendaye, France.—(At the Spanish Frontier)—Aug. 15.—(AP)—Insurgents reported today that government defenders were driven at bayonet point from the Pandas mountains south of Gaudesa, endangering the government's foothold on the west bank of the Ebro river.

Capture by the insurgents of the mountain range broke the militiamen's strange hold on the city at which they had directed a sudden offensive, begun three weeks ago.

Only by hand-to-hand fighting, in what was described as one of the bloodiest actions of the war, were the insurgents able to clean out the area, insurgent dispatches said.

On the Estremadura front, southwestern Spain, the insurgents slowly closed in on the rich Almaden mining area, driving to within 10 miles of Almaden itself.

Meanwhile, a British vessel's radio operator was killed and two other Britons were wounded during an insurgent air raid on Valencia.

The operator was R. A. Amery of the British merchantman Hillfern.

The injured men, neither of whose names were disclosed, were the captain and non-intervention observer aboard the British ship Fredavore.

A London dispatch said the opposing sides in Spain had accepted a three-man British commission to mediate an exchange of prisoners.

The commission will go to Toulouse, France, and begin functioning probably by the end of the month.

COVERT-JOSLYN ARE CITY TENNIS DOUBLES CHAMPS

Smith and Quick Are Defeated in Finals
Yesterday

Handicapped by both a stiff breeze and a torrid Old Sol the two doubles teams met at the high school courts yesterday afternoon to decide the city championship. A good-sized gallery looked on and watched Covert and Joslyn win the laurel wreaths as well as the silver trophies by defeating Smith and Quick 3 to 1.

With stinging serves and nifty backhands both teams displayed top forms tennis and opponents praised opponents for some classy returns.

Covert and Joslyn didn't have any real trouble along the entire route and they took the first set 6-2. Smith and Quick came back to win the second set 6-4 just to show they weren't to be considered too easy.

In the third set Smith and Quick took the first two games before the opponents found their stride to take the next four. Smith and Quick took the next game but Covert and Joslyn came back at once to win the set 6-3.

Final Set
In the final set of the best three out of five matches, Covert and Joslyn took the first game to forecast the final results and Smith and Quick won the second game as good runners-up to show they deserved their position in the finals.

Covert and Joslyn took the third game and the enemy came back for two straight wins to lead 3-2 in the set score. Covert and Joslyn took the sixth game to even the count and Smith and Quick came back for a lead with the seventh game making the reading 4-3, but Covert and Joslyn whipped through for the next three games to win the set 6-4 and the matches 3 to 1.

Mounted silver figures were presented to the winners and silver cups to the runner-up.

George Cies acted as referee and Snown and Danielson were judges.

It is planned to make this an annual affair for local tennis players.

Starting next Sunday the first matches in the city's singles tournament will be played with the first eight men on the Dixon tennis ladder competing for city championship.

GAMES TONIGHT
For your diet of softball games the menu tonight offers the choice of two dishes. The first course includes Reynolds vs. Kellars and the nut cup course will be the I. N. U. vs. Telegraph.

TURNS TO HARBALL
Glenn Courtwright who has been playing softball with the California Market team, has been offered a suit with the Dixon Knacks hardball outfit. After a season of practice in softball county decides he is in shape for a try at hardball, and Manager Cummings agrees.

ON VACATION
Francis Henry and Paul Potts got together and figured out that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, so they hied themselves off to the north this past week end for a little fishing and big apple stuff at Lake Geneva. But softball and hardball went on just the same.

NEAR TRAGEDY
Things looked bad for a moment at the softball game last night between the Ashton and Amboy girls when time had to be called while the catcher went in quest of a pin. Betty Full of Amboy snapped a shoulder strap on her suspenders and the cry went up for "A pin, a pin—my kingdom for a pin!" One was found and the game went on again.

CARLSONS AND FLANAGANS
The seven Carlson brothers with two Flanagan will compose a novelty softball team to play in the feature game at the Airport next Sunday night. As yet the enemy hasn't been chosen and it may be hard to find any team willing to risk their necks before such a steam roller of power as the Carlsons and Flanagan. Oh, the Martins and the Coys, they were mighty mountain boys.

GETTING HIS WIND
Ken Abbott, scoutmaster of troop 89, who has been selected by the local chapter of the Red Cross to attend the national American Red Cross aquatic school at Oconomowoc, Wis., was "getting his wind" yesterday. He spent the morning at the Crawford pool and all afternoon at the Atkinson tank and today is thoroughly water-soaked. Ken will spend ten days at the school and will leave August 24.

BACK ON TOP
George Covert, Jr., is back on the top of the tennis ladder with his defeat of Dick Joslyn Saturday. Well, Joslyn held it for a week, anyway. Those on the ladder are reminded that Thursday will mark the deadline for any further shifting of games on the ladder and the first games of the singles tournament will be played Sunday, August 21. It is probable that a meeting will be held Thursday night at the Telegraph offices to arrange the brackets.

RIZZO IS BOY WHO HOLDS THE PIRATES ALOFT

There Is No Argument
Like a Home Run—It's Hard to Beat

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
While the "dep" boys, Lee Hanley and Pep Young, and "Fireman" Mace Brown, the great reamer of the Pittsburgh mound staff, have earned and received plenty of credit, perhaps the main reason why the Pirates are holding onto the National league lead is because Jawn Rizzo can knock 'em out of the park.

Rizzo has proved to Pittsburgh fans that the New York Yankees' theory—there's no argument like a home run—is hard to beat. Last season the Bucs hit only 47 homers all season. This year they have 42 to date with 53 games still to play. And an even dozen of them have come from Rizzo's bat.

Johnny provided the big poke yesterday with that 12th homer to help beat the third-place Chicago Cubs, 2-0, after Gabby Hartnett's wrecking crew had won the first two games of the series. The rest were in there working too, for Brown had to rescue Russ Bauers with two on and none out in the ninth and the Bucs' infield pulled its fifth double play to cut off the threatened rally.

Lead Is Clipped
Despite the victory, Pittsburgh's lead was clipped to 4½ games as the New York Giants romped to a double victory over the Phillies, 11-0 and 14-6. Besides their own 34 hits, the Giants got the benefit of 14 passes and ten Philly errors.

The Yankees stretched their American League margin to 7½ games over Cleveland by turning back the Athletics twice, 4-3 and 9-2, while the Indians came through with a single 6-4 decision over the Chicago White Sox. The real feature of the American League day, however, was the one-hit game hurled by Buck Newsom of St. Louis.

Newsom, the Browns' one successful finger, whiffed 12 Detroit batters and granted only one single, to George Tebbets, in beating the Tigers, 7-1, in a doubleheader opener. Detroit came back to earn a 3-3, nine inning tie in the nightcap when Tebbets made a pinch single behind doubles by Rudy York and Pete Fox to complete a two run rally.

Yanks Make Good
The Yanks made good use of their favorite weapon, the homer, to beat the A's. Lou Gehrig smacked one in each game and Bill Dickey in the first, and George Selkirk broke up the opener by hitting for four bases in the ninth inning. Cleveland followed suit against the White Sox as circuit swats by Ken Keltner and Earl Averill made up for the fact they had to use four pitchers.

Washington drove the Boston Red Sox a little deeper into third place with a 7-1 victory, engineered by Harry Kelley, who hurled five-hit ball and drove in three tallies. Good pitching marked a pair of divided National League bargain bills. Fred Fitzsimmons hurled a three-hitter to give Brooklyn a 2-0 decision over Boston, then Lou Fette won his eighth straight, 6-4. Paul Derringer chalked up his 15th victory for Cincinnati, 5-4 over St. Louis, but the Cards' Clyde Shoun replied with six-hit flinging and Ducky Medwick socked a homer to take the nightcap, 8-1.

BY SID FEDER
(Pinch-hitting for Eddie Briets)
New York, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A lot of baseball men in the know tell you Mickey Cochrane will be managing the Red Sox and Joe Cronin will be back in Washington in a year or two. And don't be surprised if Billy Rogell, who was palsy-walsy with him Mike, is put on the trading block by the Tigers.

Sounds like a pipe dream, but Army is a little bit afraid of Wichita, the cadet football opener. Al Schacht may do his clowning around the college gridirons this year. If his advisors can sell him on the idea. Al Hootel, the new middleweight champ, drew exactly one buck for his first fight—a two-round kayo. Note to Kansas City writers: Don't let Bruce Ogrowski, the Blues' new catcher, kid you. His first name's Ambrose, not Bruce, but he doesn't like it.

Northwestern is doing its best to keep Norm Ferran a secret. He's six-foot-four and 245 pounds of nifty tackle from Iowa. We heard a fellow, who says he has inside info betting important sugar that the Giants will broadcast their 39 games, with a cereal company as sponsors. 's tragic, isn't it, that one of the game's greatest batteries, Grove and Cochrane, should be saying so long to the diamond and some weeks. What's this about a mass holdout of half a dozen or more of the Green Bay Pro football packers? With a shorter schedule, they want the pay per game upped so they won't come out short.

Jack Doyle put the odds at 2 to 1 that Hank Greenberg doesn't bust Babe Ruth's homer record. Detroit sports writers and fans are still burned up because the Tigers fired Cochrane instead of giving him a chance to resign. Mel Moore now—about his Louisiana home, where he really belongs and Stan Hack on that cereal company. "All-America" popularity team, for which he gets an auto as prize. Now wouldn't it be something if the fans also picked him as one of the outfielders, where he really belongs. How about one of those cars if it happens, Mel?

Why those Indians whose pitching is blowing up all over the place didn't grab Wes Ferrell is one of the major mysteries to this corner. And with those doubleheaders two and three deep every week for hanging around the way, you can hand those Yanks the day's work for landing him. The crying towel is passing around the football coaches already. Bernie Moore now—about his Louisiana home, where he really belongs and Stan Hack on that cereal company. RIGGS TO REST
FOR THE DAVIS CUP MATCHES

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The United States Lawn Tennis association could give Mike Jacobs lessons in match-making, so Robert Riggs and J. Donald Budge, the best two amateur tennis players in the world will not be seen together on the court until the finals of the national singles championship at Forest Hills next month.

Budge will play his first competitive singles since he returned from England at Newport this week. But Riggs, who yesterday won the eastern grass courts championship from Joe Hunt, will not be there. He will be resting at the order of Walter L. Pate the man who captains the Davis Cup team.

For Bobby is potential cup team timber, if not the finished product. So, despite the fact a Riggs-Budge match is the only one the fans want to see, he will rest while Budge exhibits the best backhand in the game and his flawless timing at the Newport Invitation Tennis tournament where he is favored to win the Casino cup "for keeps."

With Baron Von Cramm in prison and Fred Perry and Ely Vines on the professional side of the fence, Riggs is the only one who figures to give Budge any sort of a tussle. No one knows just how far this iron-sinewed Chicagoan can go. He was never in danger yesterday beating Hunt 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 10-8.

Alkie Marble, who efficiently disposed of Dorothy Bunday in the women's finals at Rye yesterday, goes to Manchester, Mass., for the Essex County Club tourney.

Budge and Gene Mako were on display in the eastern tournament doubles but they didn't exert themselves any too much and ran into a bit of difficulty conquering the smooth team of Hunt and Sidney Wood, 8-10, 6-1, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4, in the final.

ASHTON GIRLS DEFEAT AMBOY LAST EVENING

Hardball Team Takes the Softball Gang Into
Camp for Nightcap

Once upon a time it was a man's world, but now the fellows are losing their hold on the masculine possessions and even baseball is slipping into the feminine camp. Two girl teams gave the lads a lesson in their own game last night when the Ashton and Amboy girls came out to the Airport for one of the fanciest games the park has seen this season as the Ashton team won 7 to 5 (Weaker sex—my eye!)

There were less errors in the girls' game than in most of those played by the men in the city league. When the girls nabbed the ball, they hung on to it and any league catcher could take a few lessons from the nifty work of collecting foul tips which Decorsey and B. Full demonstrated in their work behind the plate.

The girls had the rules down pat, even kept the chatter alive on the field and the batteries weren't so slow, either.

Clock Work Precision
With clockwork precision the first three girls up for Amboy went down bang, bang, bang on plays from short to first, a pop out to second baseman and a whip of the apple from third to first. The 450 spectators knew right away that this wasn't to be any tea party or knitting marathon.

Ashton took two runs in their half of the first after there was one away. Lahman was walked. Krug got on with one of the few errors and Lahman scored. Mereth's drive to left field scored Krug before Esther Semmler and Ogle were downed for the three-away.

Amboy went into the lead in the second inning when they collected three runs off two hits and two errors. Metzen got a double to start the inning and scored on an error by shortstop which gave a base to Douvier. Douvier scored on and hit by T. Glazer and an error in left field and Glazer scored on the play. R. Full whiffed and B. Full went down from pitcher to first.

Ashton Takes Lead
Ashton came back for the lead in the last of the third with two runs off two hits. One was a non-stop flight around the field by Lahman. Esther Semmler got a double but was left on base. Three more runs settled the matter for Ashton when Esther Semmler scored on a single by Ogle, O. Hillard got a single and the third scored on an error by the third baseman which put Hennert on only to expire on the three-away.

Amboy fought bravely in their half of the seventh and managed to collect two runs from one hit and a walk, but two weren't enough and the victory went to Ashton.

Ogle, hurling for Ashton, allowed five hits, struck out four and walked one. Reed, a southpaw, pitched for Amboy and gave off seven hits, struck out three and walked two.

KNACKS DEFEAT KNACKS
The Knacks defeated the Knacks in the nightcap game—or rather, the softball boys beating them at their own sport. The softball club didn't profit much by the object lesson of the girls and made 10 errors to lose 14 to 3.

It started off all right and at the end of the second inning the softball club was leading 2 to 1—but from then on spots danced in front of their eyes and those spots were scoring hits by the hardball lads.

The lightweight just couldn't hang on to the apple somehow and ping, bang—the runs came in as the ball flew all over the field and nobody seemed to be holding it.

For both teams the fifth inning was an exhibition of the best playing in the game. In the softball boys' half they were held scoreless and three were left on base. In the first half of the same inning they had held the hardball team to the same performance and Cummings' lads just couldn't let them hog the spotlight with that kind of goings-on.

Kuhn, playing short for his hardball gang, played for keeps last night and got four hits in six times to bat. One was a homer which faded into a double because he didn't touch second base. Besides that he got two singles and a double into center field. In the first of the ninth Don Bush slapped out a homer and a Carlson scored. Two of the three runs made by the lightweight came in on errors.

Harry Downs did the umpire job behind home plate and also worked for the first half of the girls' game before giving over to Charles Scott of Amboy.

THIS WEEK'S WEATHER

HOW HUMAN SKIN ABSORBS THE RAYS OF SUNLIGHT

SUNSHINE ON OUR SKINS

Folk, why does your skin react to light? Is it possible to get too much sunlight when the weather is clear?

In the beginning, scientists think when human beings were evolving, we were brown, with skins a deep tan. Since then different races have evolved in different ways, until now we see the extremes of the blonde and often freckled Nordic, the Negro, so brown he is almost black, and the Melanesian of the South Sea Isles, even blacker still. Practically all the people who live and stay healthy in the tropics have dark skins, while those who live in regions of storm and snow are always paler and are sometimes without coloring matter in their skins at all.

Sunlight is chemically active. You might try the experiment of exposing two pieces of ordinary newspaper, one to direct sunshine, the other to the shade only. In a few days the paper in the sun will turn yellow and brittle, while the one that is in the shade will require a much longer time to turn.

When sunshine strikes the molecules of the paper it explodes some of them. A reaction of the same kind, but more intense, takes place on the film in your camera. Sometimes, as when hydrogen gas and chlorine gas come together in the presence of light, the explosion can be violent. When you are being sunburned you feel little discomfort at the time, but later the effect is not greatly different from that of a burn by hot fire. Some of the molecules in the tissues of your skin were exploded by the light.

The body makes provision for the damaging effect of too much light by raising a layer of dark brown pigment in the skin, which absorbs the unwanted rays. Everyone needs some light, but some need much more than others. Negroes, who come from Africa, need a great deal of light, and are often sickly in northern places without it. Fair skinned people need only a little light. Their skins burn easily, and later assume the texture of saddle leather if they get too much light. Brunettes occupy a place midway between.

Do you come back from an outing feeling fit—or sore from sunburn? Maybe your skin is to blame. Historians place great emphasis on the quantity of sunlight in the weather of different countries, and they assert that the vanishing of historically blonde people from Egypt, Greece and Rome was due to the unhealthy effect of too much bright sunshine in those localities.

WEATHER QUESTIONS

Question—Why were the Northern Lights so brilliant during the World War?—K. L.

Answer—This was during a sunspot cycle, when electrons from the sun reached the earth in abundance.

Question—Will it ever be possible for man to make a trip to and from one of the planets?—N. C.

Answer—A rocket space ship is mechanically possible, but no fuel powerful enough to drive it across inter-planetary space has so far been developed. Inventors are working on it.

Question—When does Saturn come up?—H. J. G.

Answer—You can see Saturn in the east before dawn.

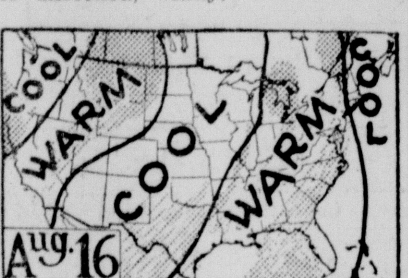

Question—Can one make a telescope using for the small end lens a magnifier of about 1 1/2 inch focal length, and for the large end one of about a 36 inch focal length?—T. M.

Answer—The telescope made from these lenses would be too weak for astronomical use. You gain power from the length of focus of the front lens.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Soul" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 14.

The Golden Text was, "Hear me speedily, O Lord... cause me to hear thy loving kindness in the morning; for in thee do I trust: cause me to know the way wherein I should walk; for I lift up my soul unto thee" (Psalms 143:7, 8).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I will bless the Lord at all times; his praise shall continually be in my mouth. My soul shall make her boast in the Lord: the humble shall hear thereof, and be glad. O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together" (Psalms 34:1-3).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Soul, or Spirit, is God, unchangeable and eternal; and man coexists with and reflects Soul, God, for man is God's image" (p. 120).

La FOLLETTE TO DROP ALLIANCE WITH NEW DEAL

Wisconsin Senator Says He'll Support New Party Candidates

Washington, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Senator LaFollette (Prog.-Wis.) has said he would campaign for the candidate nominated by the Progressive party to oppose Senator Duffy (D.-Wis.), administration supporter seeking re-election.

His announcement, made in an interview, apparently indicated an end—so far as Wisconsin politics are concerned—to the political semi-alliance he had had with the administration.

When Duffy first was elected to the Senate in 1932, he had the backing of LaFollette. President Roosevelt had urged Duffy's election.

Duffy is understood to be high in White House favor. The President gave him warm praise in a letter sent to a testimonial dinner for Duffy in Wisconsin last spring.

LaFollette has been one of the President's staunchest supporters in the Senate. He is understood to have been dissatisfied in recent months, however, with some administration policies. The delay in resuming spending, after the recession of last fall, was said particularly to have irked him.

The Wisconsin Progressive indicated that even if the President took some personal action in behalf of Duffy his decision to support the Progressive would not be altered.

His announcement left no doubt, too, that he intends to become active soon in pushing the national third party movement he and his brother, Gov. Phil LaFollette of Wisconsin, launched last spring.

Neutral in Fight

He said he would remain neutral in the Progressive party primary in Wisconsin, in which Rep. Thomas R. Amle is opposed by Herman Ekern, former State Attorney General, for the senatorial nomination.

LaFollette disclaimed any fear that the entry of a Progressive candidate in the Wisconsin race would result in the election of a Republican. He said he thought the battle would be between the Progressive and Democratic nominees.

LaFollette said political developments necessarily would shape the course of the national third party movement, observing that he had no idea yet whether there would be a Progressive party nominee for president in 1940.

"There must be a realignment of political parties on the basis of issues," he declared. "We are trying to form a party of members who are thinking along the same lines."

As $2,000,000 Fire Swept Vancouver Waterfront

This little fireboat wasn't much good against the spectacular blaze that swept Pier D, largest docks of the Canadian Pacific Steamship Company at Vancouver, B. C. Destroying the pier, a heavily-stocked freight shed beside it and part of a ramp connecting a railway station with the docks, the fire did $2,000,000 damage and threatened for a time to destroy the entire waterfront and the wholesale district bordering it. The section of the pier shown in the photo was a complete ruin a few minutes after the picture was taken.
